Campus Plan Decision Still Pending

The Board of Zoning Adjustment will soon give final approval to George Washington University's revised campus master plan for the years 1985 through 2000. ANC 2A, the Foggy Bottom Association, and other neighborhood groups and individuals strongly opposed many aspects of GW's proposed campus plan and GW's application for approval has been pending before the BZA for over two years.

Here's How It Started

Under the D.C. Zoning Regulations, colleges and universities are not permitted in residential districts unless they have a campus plan approved by the BZA and obtain separate BZA approval for each building constructed. The BZA approved a campus plan for GW in 1970. When GW sought approval for a Support Building on F Street in 1983, ANC 2A opposed the proposal before the BZA arguing, among other things, that the Support Building was not part of the 1970 campus plan. The BZA approved the Support Building but found that "the GWU campus master plan should be revised and updated to indicate more definitively the nature of anticipated development in the Plan area." In response, GW submitted to the BZA in April, 1986 a revised campus plan covering the years 1985 through 2000.

GWU Plans Expansion in FB

GW's revised campus plan describes a major expansion of GW's presence in Foggy Bottom. GW intends to increase the daily university population (students, faculty, employees, visitors) by 20%, from 25,000 to 30,000, and to construct additional buildings totaling at least 2,300,000 square feet of floor area. GW proposes to accomplish that significant expansion by acquiring and eliminating all remaining non-university residential uses within the campus and developing the entire campus to the maximum permissible height and density and, indeed, seeking rezoning to increase the permissible height and density. Sidewalk Talk

By Betty Olsen

Richard Price jaunted to the Big Apple recently. "Just a short hop but an enjoyable one," he reported.

George Washington University's alumni met on the quad recently to honor Lloyd Elliot who is retiring after 23 years as President. A huge cake was served and balloons were flying high with helium, sporting the likeness of Elliot sketched by Nip Rogers. Elliot will be associated with the National Geographic after his August 1st departure.

Father Ralph Bethancourt is a new parish priest at St. Paul's. He was ordained this past December but had been with the church since June 1987 as a deacon and two years prior to deaconship he was a seminarian. Belated welcome, Father.

The first annual Bark Ball held as an Emergency Building Relief Fundraiser for the Washington Humane Society was held recently at the Hotel Washington Ballroom. Robin Weir was one of the four co-chairmen of the event.

You should see the orchids Walter Anderson has grown inside his condo at the Westbridge. In a word — they are GORGEOUS.

Bernice Friedlander is celebrating her third year of not going near the water at The Claridge House pool which is now open atop the cooperative. No wonder her skin is like fine china. By the way the Claridge House is decorating its lobby again; this time primarily in shades of grayish greens.

Maria Tyler called the other day to say thanks for the mention of her Russian library in last month's column. She said that she had heard about it from the Fire Station. Hey, guys (girls?), thanks to your for spreading the News news! And some old news, which may be new news to some, is that Maria Tyler retired from her position with the International Monetary Fund last December, and her husband Geoffrey retired this spring. But don't bet they are a lady and gentleman of leisure!

FB Welcomes Repaired Brick Sidewalks

By Maria Tyler

Residents of 25th and Eye Streets between K and H Streets and 24th and 26th Streets, respectively, and the many other Foggy Bottom residents who enjoy walking in historic Foggy Bottom were not amused when a few months ago PEPCO did work on its light standards, involving excavations of parts of the brick sidewalks. Instead of relaying the brick pavements, one of the attractive features of our Historic District, PEPCO filled the excavations roughly with a bitumen mixture, both ugly and dangerous. The destruction of the sidewalks was all the more objectionable because the Department of Public Works had helpfully renovated damaged parts of the brick sidewalks late last year.

Our councilmember John Wilson was asked for his help in requiring PEPCO to return the sidewalks to their original condition. Residents will have seen the results of John's intervention. The Department of Public Works has replaced the brickwork and will be billing PEPCO for the cost. Eric Jones, John's friendly and efficient assistant, personally checked to make sure DPW had done its work. Our thanks go to Councilmember John Wilson and to Eric Jones for helping retain this attractive feature of our Historic District.

Beautification Project
Foggy Bottom Association

Dear Project Members:

The proposed Beautification Project is a wondrous endeavor. I commend the leadership behind its launching. The project is one in which everyone can participate for the good of all.

Foggy Bottom is a prize residential area. But our hundreds of residents litter and some litter gloriously.

I suggest, as part of the campaign, a slogan encouraging each resident, when out on the street, to pick up two pieces of trash per day. Not very much to ask. Perhaps it is time to take an activist position on the matter of trash. Such a campaign might have a positive effect on littering, a renewed consciousness on strewing and tossing, and more debris in the trash cans.

I have done my stint on street trash, two or more per day, since July 4, 1987. At times the removal of a few pieces of trash has cleared a whole block. At other times, it hardly made a dent and in these instances I wished for willing hands.

Condolences

Our condolences to the Olsens on the recent death of Betty's mother — and Kirsten's grandmother.

Thank you for publicizing selected events of the IMF Visitors' Center in the May 1988 issue of the Foggy Bottom News.

I have noted that more and more residents of the Foggy Bottom area are making use of the IMF Visitors' Center for different events. The Center is becoming a major element in the cultural life of our neighborhood through exhibitions, films and other cultural events and also it contributes to a better understanding of the role and functions of the IMF.

The Foggy Bottom News publication year begins again with the September 1988 issue. How about beginning an annual dog show the next month, October? Think about it, especially during the dog days of summer, and decide whether you and your pup want to strut your stuff this fall. There could even be awards for different categories, that is, if you think you and your pup would like to attend. Call 965-1506 giving your name, your pup's and your phone number so that we can alert you in the September issue of the Foggy Bottom News. As for me, except for an occasional outing, I am going to stay inside my flat close to the air conditioning this summer, unless . . . I go out in an air conditioned car.

Campus Plan

ture from the 1970 campus plan, the revised plan allows GW to use GW's buildings on Pennsylvania Avenue and 19th Street (1900 Pa. Ave., 2000 Pa. Ave., 2100 Pa. Ave., 2122 Pa. Ave., and 600 19th Street) as permanent commercial office space. The 1970 campus plan required those buildings, which contain a total of 2,285,000 square feet of floor area, to be converted to university use to accommodate future university growth. GW's revised plan also includes proposals to close five blocks within the campus to vehicular traffic, to construct five above-street pedestrian bridges between university buildings, and to increase the permissible height limit for university buildings in the central campus area. GW intends to continue using substantial space outside the campus boundaries within ANC 2A for university purposes, and, despite GW's planned expansion, the revised plan does not require construction of any additional university parking.

In a commendable effort to keep the neighborhood informed, GW submitted drafts of the revised campus plan to the Office of Planning and neighborhood representatives for review and comment prior to filing the plan with the BZA. That resulted in some improvements to the plan but disagreements remained. ANC 2A and the FBA took lead roles in representing the interests of the neighborhood both in commenting on GW's drafts and in hearings before the BZA. In September and October 1986, the BZA held two days of hearings on GW's application for approval of the campus plan. ANC 2A adopted and filed extensive reports describing the objectionable features of GW's proposed plan, and representatives of ANC

EDITOR'S NOTE: Anyone who wants to help support an appeal to the D.C. Court of Appeals, if it becomes necessary, is urged to drop a note to the FBA in care of the West End Library, 24th & L Streets, N.W. 20037. The neighborhood's appeal would have to be filed during the summer months, since BZA is expected to rule shortly, and the appeal time is very limited. If you would be willing to contribute to an appeal fund, if it's needed, let us know and we can get back to you later. It's an important case for the area, and your support will be badly needed.

2A and the FBA testified in opposition to the plan before the BZA.

BZA Approved — with Conditions

On February 25, 1988, the BZA issued an order approving GW's revised campus plan subject to conditions. The BZA approved GW's planned expansion and allowed permanent use of the buildings on Pennsylvania Avenue and 19th Street for commercial purposes rather than university uses. Although ANC 2A objected that the revised campus plan does not describe a single planned building nor specify any firm locations for particular uses the BZA declined to insist on more specificity in the plan; however, the BZA did require that "the height, bulk and design (including the location of any means of approach and egress) of future University structures will be compatible with and sensitive to the height, bulk, and design of adjacent non-University-owned structures." The BZA refused to decide on GW's proposals for street closings, pedestrian bridges, and height increases on the ground that the BZA lacks jurisdiction over such matters but, nevertheless, allowed those proposals to remain in the campus plan. The BZA allowed GW to continue use of off-campus space in ANC 2A but required that office and administrative off-campus uses be in commercial zones. In response to recommendations of the Office of Planning, ANC 2A, and the FBA, the BZA removed Concordia Church (20th and G Streets) and Square 43 (bounded by 23rd Street, G Street, and Virginia Avenue) from the campus area, finding that "removal of Square 43 [is] essential to the preservation and enhancement of residential uses in the Foggy Bottom neighborhood. The BZA also required GW to designate at least one site within the campus for new dormitory construction.

Reconsideration Motion Is Pending

GW immediately filed a motion for reconsideration asking the BZA to reverse every aspect of the BZA's decision that responded, even partially, to neighborhood concerns. ANC 2A filed a memorandum in opposition to GW's motion, and a decision on the motion is expected in the near future.

After the BZA's final decision on the campus plan any parties dissatisfied with the decision can appeal to the D.C. Court of Appeals. Since D.C. law prohibits the ANC from engaging in litigation in the courts, further representation of Foggy Bottom's interests will fall to other neighborhood organizations and individual citizens.

I figured since the Foggy Bottom News won't be back until fall, I'd better give you enough suggestions for fun outings for the rest of the summer. Just tear out this list, stick it in a drawer, and pull it out when you (or your out-of-town visitors) feel like doing something, but you're fresh out of ideas. The activities I've picked are inexpensive (or free), close, and don't include the Mall.

Police Ticket Bus Ban Violator

By Maria Tyler and Ellie Becker

As Foggy Bottom residents will remember, the Advisory Neighborhood Commission and the Foggy Bottom Association, with the very active participation of residents, fought for nearly seven years for a ban on bus traffic on specified blocks of 25th, 26th and Eye Streets. The endeavors, begun in early 1980, led to the requested bus prohibition on May 29, 1981. However, the neighborhood was subjected to a lengthy contested case proceeding. It was only after this case was won by the neighborhood that the Department of Public Works was able to promulgate a final rulemaking on October 17, 1986.

Despite our victory, which established a national precedent, some tour buses have continued to enter the streets from which they are prohibited. We have reported infractions to the police and worked with the hotel management of the River Inn — the principal generator of the tour bus traffic — to prevent these violations; however, success has been limited thus far. A recent experience in obtaining enforcement of the traffic regulations is therefore encouraging.

A few weekends ago, tour buses were seen servicing the River Inn, in blatant violation of the clearly posted traffic signs. Lt. Doyle of the Metropolitan Police Department's Second District was contacted for help. His responsiveness was gratifying indeed! He placed a police officer on duty at 24th and Eye Streets, and as a bus made the illegal entry onto Eye Street, the officer stopped the driver, forced him to reverse, and issued a hefty ticket for the traffic violation.

Since then, no buses have been seen or reported and we may have reason to be optimistic that this police action has clearly shown that traffic rules are made to be obeyed, and that the police will not shy away from enforcing them. Our thanks to Lt. Doyle and his team at the Second District for protecting our legal rights.

Morella Hansen was a witness to three violations of the bus ban within the span of one week and involving 6 buses from three different companies (including two school buses from Prince George's County). They were dropping passengers off for the River Inn and the Inn at Foggy Bottom. Remonstrations with the drivers did not do any good, and the 2d District police were notified of the situation.

Sgt. James of the Community Relations Department responded to the complaint and stated his intention to work with the hotels in the area to ensure that the existence of the bus ban would be communicated to their client groups. He also assigned Officer Stephen M. Lee to patrol the bus ban zone at crucial times.

She appreciated very much the cooperation received from the 2d District and encourages anyone spotting an errant bus in our neighborhood to call him at 282-0050 (or 282-0070).

The editor witnessed another example of bad judgment, if not illegality, on the part of some bus drivers recently. Several mornings in a row, at the peak of rush hour, buses would proceed south from Washington Circle on New Hampshire Avenue, and then make a right hand turn onto 24th Street. If you examine the angle of that maneuver, you can imagine the colossal mess the buses made. One managed to block the substantial traffic both ways on 24th for almost 15 minutes while he tried to make the turn, and impeded New Hampshire Avenue as well. It reinforced the fact that our streets are not made for that kind of traffic.

The building at 2001 Eye Street which housed the Electronic Industries Association comes down. It's being demolished to make way for a new 11-story, office/retail complex to be built by the Farr Companies.

STUFFED CHICKEN BREASTS

6 WHOLE CHICKEN BREASTS HALVED, SKINNED & BONED	1/3 CUP CHOPPED GREEN ONIONS
1/2 CUP FRESH LEMON JUICE	1/2 TEASPOON DRY TARRAGON
8 OUNCES CREAM CHEESE	1/2 TEASPOON SALT
	12 SLICES BACON

Preheat oven to 350°. Pound breasts carefully between pieces of wax paper to flatten. Dip in lemon juice. Combine cream cheese, onions, tarragon and salt. Place approximately 2 tablespoons of this mixture on each piece of chicken. Roll like a jelly roll and wrap each piece with a slice of bacon. Secure with toothpicks. Place in buttered shallow baking dish and bake uncovered for 30-40 minutes.

HOW TO CUT CALORIES IN COOKING

- Select lean beef cuts (top round, top loin strip steak, top sirloin, eye of the round, flank, tip and extra lean ground beef [80-85% lean]).
- Trim outside fat from meats before cooking and trim any separable fat before eating.
- Limit use of added flour, sugar, fats, sauces or gravies in cooking.
- Season with herbs and spices instead of butter, margarine or cream sauces.
- Use low-calorie substitutes for regular ingredients when possible. For example, substitute plain, lowfat yogurt for sour cream or mayonnaise; tomato juice for tomato sauce; skim milk for whole milk or cream.
- Bake, broil or roast meats on a rack so meats will remain above drippings.
- Remove drippings after browning meats for stews, pot roast or ground meat.

MICROWAVING MEAT

Beef Roasts

1. Select roasts weighing no more than four pounds.
2. Place roast fat side down, on rack in microwave-safe dish.
3. Do not add liquid. Cover with waxed paper.
4. Microwave at MEDIUM LOW (200 watts or 30 percent power).
5. Allow 18 to 22 minutes per pound for rare to medium.
6. Rotate dish 1/4 turn every 20 minutes.
7. Invert roast to fat side up midway through cooking.
8. Cook until 5° below desired doneness. To determine doneness of beef roasts use the oven's temperature probe or a meat thermometer after roasts are removed from the oven.
9. Remove from oven; tent with foil; let stand 15 to 20 minutes.

Neighbor Saves Neighbors' Efforts

A joint effort by several residents of Eye Street, aimed at beautification and increased safety, was almost destroyed by thieves. In April flagstones from Morella Hansen's yard were placed in the foot alley from Eye Street to Snow's Court, and mulch and plantings were added. Involved in the project were Morella, Marge and John White, and Nori Ushida. A lot of work, but truly worth the effort.

The fortuitous return home of Greg Griewe, of 23 Snow's Court, on the evening of April 27 between 11:30 and midnight, thwarted the theft of the flagstones. They had been placed to make the alley more attractive and passable in rainy weather when water would collect there.

Greg came upon a white van pulled up to the fence opening in the parking lot abutting the alley. Two men were in the process of loading up the flagstones which they had already removed from the alley. The two men alleged that the flagstones belonged to them, but Greg and his wife Carol Cooper disputed this allegation vigorously. While the police were being called the men decided not to wait and took off with the one flagstone already in the van.

It was learned, in addition, that seven other flagstones were taken from another alleyway in Snow's Court between Nos. 9 and 19. Bricks also have been seen being loaded into a white van.

Health Hints

KENNEY SAYS "COOL IT"

Summer heat can cause fatigue, nausea, dizziness, blurred vision, and even deafness. If not treated, these conditions can result in heat stroke and, in some cases, death.

The body must constantly lose a certain amount of heat in order to maintain the proper body temperature, says Richard Kenney, Ph.D., chairman and professor of physiology. Hot air prevents the body from losing much heat by convection and humidity prevents it from losing much by evaporation. At the same time, the body tends to gain heat by radiation on sunny days.

Dr. Kenney also encourages keeping an adequate flow of air over your body to remove heat, wearing light, absorbent cotton clothing, opening your shirt collar and untucking your shirt. You should also try to stay in the shade and reduce strenuous outdoor activity.

Dr. Kenney also recommends that you drink enough fluids to quench your thirst, and then 50 percent more. Water or Gatorade are the best choices for replenishing body fluids. Alcoholic fluids such as cold beer increase the loss of fluids through the kidneys and do almost nothing to cool the body.

Following these few suggestions should help you to enjoy a cool, relaxing summer. •

The chart above is based on a 2.5-foot-long stride. If yours is closer to 3 feet, calculate your walking speed this way: Count how many steps you take in a minute and divide that number by 30; i.e., if you're taking about 105 steps per minute, you're covering a heart-challenging 3.5 miles per hour.
